Failing to turn the corner: The 2012 Logan Chieftains

By Spencer Waugh

The 2012 Logan Chieftains missed two golden opportunities for early wins and had extremely disappointing ends to both the non-league and SEOAL seasons. In Coach Kelly Wolfe's last year, Logan lost in overtime in their second game and lost a tough road game to Newark in week three. An upset over Chillicothe in the eighth week wasn't enough to erase disastrous performances against Nelsonville-York and Warren.

Here is a game by game look at the 2012 Chieftains:

Aug. 24, 2012 - VS Lancaster – Loss, 07-42

Lancaster used big plays to bury Logan early and often in the 2012 lid-lifter. Running backs Andrew Shisler and Tanner England each averaged more than ten yards per carry while combining for a pair of touchdowns and Lancaster passed for two scores in a dominating win at Logan Chieftain Stadium.

Aug. 31, 2012 – VS Northland – Loss, 26-32 (OT)

In one of the most disappointing games in recent memory, the Chieftains blew a late 26-18 lead before falling 32-26 in overtime. Cory McCarty paced Logan with 162 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Northland scored the game-tying two point conversion in controversial fashion falling on a lateral in the endzone with less than three minutes to play. The Chieftain coaching staff thought the fumble should have been called dead on a forward lateral. Glenn Smith scored twice and threw a touchdown pass for the Vikings.

Sept. 7, 2012 – AT Newark – Loss, 32-35

For the second straight week Logan fought back from a two score deficit to lead in the fourth quarter only to surrender a late lead in Newark's first home win since 2007. McCarty ran wild for 245 yards while Isaac Schmeltzer ran for 165 and 2 touchdowns. Newark took a 21-0 lead in the first quarter after a 52-yard interception return, but Logan took a 32-27 lead into the fourth quarter. Junior Grant Russell completed 14 of 25 passes for 241 yards and two touchdowns for the Wildcats.

Sept. 14, 2012 – AT Jonathan Alder – Loss, 0-35

Logan dominated the first quarter on their first ever visit to Plain City and twice had the ball inside the Pioneer 10-yard line. The Chieftains failed to convert their domination into points and JA QB Andy Fooce and receiver Brad Miller combined over and over again to dominate the Chieftain defense. Fooce rushed for 96 yards and two scores and passed for 249 yards and three scores. Miller caught 6 balls for 196 yards and three touchdowns.

Sept. 21, 2012 – VS Nelsonville-York – Loss, 0-50

Logan and Nelsonville-York played to a stale mate through one quarter, but once Clint Handa scored from 42 yards out in the second quarter it was all Buckeyes. Handa added two more touchdowns in the first half and the orange and brown added four more scores in the second half as the Buckeyes handed Logan their worst shut out loss in school history and giving N-Y their biggest win over the purple rivals.

Sept. 28, 2012 – AT Portsmouth (SEOAL) – WIN, 34-13

Logan rebounded from one of their worst losses in history by completely dominating a hapless Portsmouth team 34-13 without attempting a pass. With Jack Music out for Logan, sophomore Caleb Llewellyn handed the ball to McCarty and Nick Kost as the Chieftains racked up 348 yards on the ground. McCarty led the Chiefs running for 270 yards and three touchdowns.

Oct. 5, 2012 – AT Jackson (SEOAL) – Loss, 20-31

Logan outgained Jackson in a game that saw the Ironmen run over and around the Logan defense. A late push by the purple and white, especially through the air, made a game Jackson once led 31-6 look more respectable. Donnie Stevens caught a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns for Logan.

Oct. 12, 2012 – VS Chillicothe (SEOAL) – WIN, 28-7

Despite missing starting running back and offensive MVP McCarty, Logan stepped up against a favored Chillicothe side to earn a hard-fought 28-7 win. Schmelzer ran for 173 yards and three touchdowns and the Logan defense buckled down to hold the Cavaliers to only one score. With Chillicothe leaving for the SCOL in 2013, this marked the last scheduled game between Logan and Chillicothe who have played annually since 2003.

Oct. 19, 2012 – VS Gallia Academy (SEOAL) – Loss, 14-23

After an upset of Chillicothe, Logan had the opportunity to move into a tie for the SEOAL lead with another upset over Gallia Academy. The Blue Devil defense rose to the occasion, however, limiting Logan to only 186 total yards. A 30-yard fumble return for touchdown by Nick Kost kept Logan in the game, and a long TD run by Nick Maniskas had Logan within two points of the Champions late into the second quarter. SEOAL MVP Wade Jarrell clinched the game on a QB sneak with under two minutes to play.

Oct. 26, 2012 – AT Warren (SEOAL) – Loss, 8-49

Just as Logan struggled to finish strong in their final non-conference game, the final SEOAL game ended horribly in a 49-8 loss at Warren. A win would have moved Logan into a tie for second in the SEOAL and would have given the Chiefs their first winning record in the SEOAL since winning the league in 2009. Five different players scored for Warren in a thoroughly dominating performance.

2013 Logan Chieftain Football Preview

By CRAIG DUNN

LOGAN — It's no secret that Chieftain Nation became accustomed to — and maybe even somewhat spoiled by — a phenomenal run of success that saw the Logan Chieftains pack not one, but two "teams of a lifetime" into a little more than a decade.

Over the past three seasons, however, the Logan football program has went through hard times of almost historic proportions. After the Chiefs went just 6-24 since 2010, changes were on the horizon.

A change has been made in the form a new head coach — 36-year-old Billy Burke, hired last winter to replace LHS graduate and Athletic Hall of Famer Kelly Wolfe — who, being a graduate of (and football standout at) nearby Lancaster High School, was familiar with Logan and Hocking County.

"I hear from lots of people about how excited they are about a new season, a new opportunity, things like that," Burke said in an extensive sit-down interview with The Logan Daily News. "I felt very welcome from the community, the kids and coaching staff in general. I'm pretty happy with the reception of everybody in the community.

"I never thought I'd be head football coach at Logan — I never thought I'd be back in the area since I lived up north for so long — but I'm very happy with the decision we made," he added. "In particular, every Friday for the last couple of Fridays, my boys have been really excited to put on that purple gear."

Burke knows that warm reception will only get warmer with gridiron success... and that it can cool down if success is lacking.

The program probably bottomed out when the 2012 season ended with an embarrassing 49-8 Southeastern Ohio Athletic League drubbing at Warren — which had only beaten the Chiefs four times in the previous 26 years — and a 2-8 record on the heels of 3-7 in 2010 and 1-9 in 2011.

In all fairness, however, there needs to be full disclosure when looking back at the past three seasons: after all those years of football dominance, Logan simply didn't have the personnel to compete with teams such as Lancaster, Pickerington North, Jonathan Alder or Jackson, to name a few.

Logan only had five seniors on the roster when the 2012 season got under way. Probably only Cory McCarty — now a freshman at Muskingum College — would have had a chance at getting substantial playing time on teams from the recent glory years.

By week 10, McCarty was injured — he tried to play against Warren but was forced to depart after four carries in the opening quarter — and several other players were either hurt and/or had already departed the team for various reasons. The team that finished the '12 season bore very little resemblance to football teams which Chieftain Nation had become accustomed.

By contrast, the 2013 Chiefs have a whopping 20 seniors — many of whom will play roles on both sides of the ball — and 49 players in the upper three grades. There are 14 returning lettermen.

Speaking of changes, Burke has changed the offensive and defensive schemes and, in so doing, is doing all he can to change the collective mind-sets of his players.

"The kids have been really receptive," Burke said. "We're learning a new scheme and learning how to compete offensively and defensively within that new scheme. We've worked every day (on) learning how to compete, learning how to handle our successes and learning how to turn a page if something doesn't go right.

"Inevitably, a football game is not who makes the most big plays, but it's who handles lack of success the best... who turns the page and makes the next play," he added.

Observers of Logan's new head coach relate that Burke demands their full attention in all aspects — practices, meetings, film sessions, etc. — and doesn't move on to another topic until he's sure his players have shown they are ready to do so.

To that end, it will hopefully help players not only improve but also cut down on the careless mistakes during games that have plagued the team in the past.

"One thing we say to the kids: if you get one percent better each and every day, add up that one percent over the course of a week, two weeks, and you can see how much better you're getting," Burke revealed. "As the old adage says, 'you get better or worse, you never say the same,' so if they're improving by one percent each day, that's a goal. We have to get better.

"The one percent happens in different ways," he continued. "Sometimes it's purely football technique; other times it's (that) we competed better the next day. The one percent looks a little different each and every day."

Burke said that incremental improvement showed during the Chiefs' pre-season schedule. They struggled in their first scrimmage against Logan Elm but, three days later, fared much better against Circleville, then looked smooth, crisp and focused during last Friday's OHSAA "Jamboree" game against Sheridan.

"I told the kids when I first met them that our football program is a lot like an airline flight: yes, I'm the pilot and, yes, the coaches are the flight crew, but the passengers are the ones who are going to run the plane into the ground or help make for a very nice flight," Burke said. "My point is that they take ownership of the program. This is not my program; this is our program, and I want them to take ownership.

"Part of taking ownership," he continued, "is 'my mind is in the game, not just watching' in anticipation of the next personnel grouping or (the situation), whatever the case may be. Teaching them they are a part of the whole process. Dennis Smathers (a team captain) is a great example; he's taken ownership of the program, and he might not play very much. What kid does that? Usually it's 'I'm just along for the ride right now,' but he still wants a quality flight, and he's doing his best to make that happen."

It goes without saying the Chiefs must be Prepared — yes, with a capital "P" — to avoid a bumpy ride on flight 2013.

"I go by the quote 'the more that you sweat in preparation, the less that you bleed in battle,' " Burke stated. "I've put our kids in some really tough, adverse situations in practice, or whatever the case may be, to teach how to handle that adversity.

"Again, there's always going to be bad things that go wrong in a football game, (so) can you focus on the next play? Can you focus on 'what do I have to correct to be better the next time, opposed to dwelling on the negative of the play I didn't make?' "

If not, Burke noted, a player won't be able to correct his mistake in anticipation of the follow-up play — and because the new offense is sped up, and the defense is based on being able to adapt quickly, another miscue could be the result.

"Our offense is very up-tempo; we're changing personnel groupings and formations all the time, so all kids have to be ready at all times to rotate into the game — especially offensively — at any point and time. That creates a sense of urgency that has to be there on Friday night," Burke revealed. "Friday night is very chaotic. If (a player is) accustomed to (game-night) pressure, through situations in practice, it makes it a little easier. I've stressed to them a lot under pressure to practice so that games can become a little bit easier."

With the opening game now just a few days away, good communication is priority one.

"When we install new things, as long as the kids will talk their way through, we'll slow down (so they can understand, and) if they talk their way through, then they usually have success," Burke stated. "When we forget and don't talk, that's when we run into trouble.

"I think they have picked up on it," he added. "It's the coaches who go back and associate with how they've learned the exact same scheme — but with different terminology, so they have to go back and forth between what they already knew and the new terminology of what is the same play."

Burke was head coach at Division III Medina Buckeye in Medina County from 2007 to 2011, compiling a 26-25 record and making an appearance in the 2009 state DIII playoffs. But being head coach at a smaller school meant having less help; he had to do most of the hands-on coaching himself. Being surrounded by a veteran coaching staff thus means a lot both to him and to the kids.

"I couldn't be happier with the coaching staff being receptive to me and the hard work that they have put in," Burke praised. "It's nice to have a group of guys who are self-starters and who are self-motivated and are constantly working. A lot of the assistant coaches are head coaches in other sports, so they know what it's like to be head coaches — so generally if you want something done, you get it done."

Four other assistants — Pat Walsh (girls basketball), Jim Huntsberger (softball), Josh Sturgell (boys track and field) and Brian Breining (baseball) — are head coaches, and Steve Harris and Nick Maniskas have both logged many years with the LHS football program. Harris rejoins the program after a three-year hiatus.

"When I was an assistant coach, when kids or parents would come up with questions and I had never been a head coach before, I would say 'go ask the head coach,'" Burke said with a smile. Now, "being a head coach, I appreciate guys just taking care of things. (They) make decisions that are best for the group at that particular time no matter what it is. That's what we're always trying to do."

And what they're all trying to do is post more W's and get the Chieftain football program back on track.

"I'm like anyone else in the community; I want Logan football to get back where it's been in recent history," Burke said. "That's my expectation of the program and that's a lot of other people's expectations, too."

After being hired in January, and after having put together his coaching staff, Burke admittedly was chomping at the bit to get started... but he knew he had to wait and be patient.

"The tough part of the off-season is that you have plans of schemes and ideas and fundamentals that you want to put in," Burke said, "but it's (the off-season) and there's nothing you can do. I think spring football (in college) sometimes is just as much for the coaches to be able to get some football back in their blood as much as it is to get kids more practice time. It will be nice to see all your hard work come to fruition and what you've been waiting to see."

"You can't wait to finally see this play or that play in live game-time action," he added. "Well, in February you can draw it up all you want, but you can't use it."

That time has finally arrived.

"I know it's tough for me to sleep sometimes because of the anticipation of the next day and the next things that we're going to do at practice," Burke said. "There is that sense of excitement every single day. Hopefully that never wears off."

2013 Chieftain Preview: Position By Position

In two parts: OFFENSE and DEFENSE

OFFENSE

By CRAIG DUNN
Sports Editor
cdunn@logandaily.com

LOGAN — When the Logan Chieftains experienced unparalleled success behind quarterback Patrick Angle and a stable of terrific receivers in 2008 and 2009, they utilized a spread offense that both befuddled and overwhelmed their opposition.

For the most part, the Chiefs have used a spread offense since... but without the success. And while the 2013 Chiefs are running what could be termed a spread offense, it's not geared solely to get the ball to receivers in open space as the Angle-to-receivers spread was.

"I suppose you could call us a spread offense just like everybody else," surmised new head coach Billy Burke, "but (the Logan) spread isn't necessarily designed to widen the field so we can throw the football. 'Spread' is so we can take personnel who we deem can help us in certain situations and provide opportunities to get them the ball.

"We'll be in different personnel groupings," he continued. "Sometimes there are two running backs in the game; sometimes there are four receivers in the game. It all depends upon how we're trying to design the plays or schemes to get certain weapons in our offense the ball."

When he was hired as head coach, Burke said he would be flexible to make the offense work to fit his personnel. That's what he and his coaching staff have done.

"We definitely have different weapons to work with," Burke revealed. "We'll be anywhere from two tight ends sometimes, sometimes three receivers where we're trying to get a certain guy the ball, either run or pass — and sometimes we'll stay in two backs and run the ball.

"We're pretty blessed to have a variety of personnel we can get in at certain times that can do a variety of things, but still within the context of what we do offensively," he added.

In other words, the Chiefs plan to diversify their offense given the situation and personnel. It may sound a little vague, but there's method to the madness.

The offensive line is the place Logan has plenty of experience. All five anticipated starters are returning lettermen and four were starters last fall.

"We start five seniors on the offensive line, so with a shotgun team the most important guy has to be consistent in snapping the ball," Burke said. Center "Caleb Myers (6-0, 205 pounds) has really done a nice job. As long as he's consistent snapping the ball we have a chance. Brock Emerson

(5-10, 250) and Reggie Wesselhoeft (6-4, 300) have been solid at playing tackle for us, and Nick Schneider (6-0, 215) and Jesse Needs (5-11, 225) at guards.

"Jesse has gotten significantly more playing time recently and has made our offensive line better," he continued. "Those guys are starting to jell together more and more every day and as they go, we will go on offense."

The O-line averages 239 pounds, which should be an advantage in most games.

"I think we have good size on the offensive line," Burke stated. "I can see each and every day that we are a little better.

"We're still in the process of figuring out who our depth" players will be, he added. "The way we structured camp, a lot of guys understand our scheme; it's now a matter of who are our second-teamers, who are going to sub for who — but the way our offensive line scheme is, any offensive lineman can play any (O-line) position."

Burke explains why.

"The term is 'injury-proof,' " he said. "The only guy who's different is the center because he has to snap the ball, but you should be able to play right tackle and left guard and it shouldn't be too dissimilar to the other. The scheme is pretty similar in each and every position."

The Chiefs attempted 152 passes last season. Although all were by underclassmen, Logan does not have a player on its roster who has ever thrown a regular-season varsity pass.

Jack Music threw 151 of those aerials last season. But when Music, who started 15 games the past two seasons — including all but one last year — chose not to return for his senior season, it created what turned out to be a wide-open competition for the starting nod.

Sophomore Lane Little (5-7, 135) has emerged as the starter.

"We had four quarterbacks (Little, Nick Kost, Caleb Lewellen and Casey Phillips) who were competing for the job throughout July and early August, and Lane Little separated himself," Burke revealed. "He's the guy who is your prototypical quarterback. He's got the 'it' factor, and the 'it' factor is nothing I can coach... it's just the way he carries himself. He's a natural leader, and the way he runs the offense and his understanding of everything is pretty phenomenal for a sophomore. But even though he's a sophomore, I think we're going to be pretty pleased with how he'll play this season.

"His timing is great and he throws a very good ball," Burke continued, "but the one thing that probably separated him was, in camp, when things would break down he had the ability to step up in the pocket or scramble and make a play on the run. That's the 'it' factor. He was still able to escape (a broken play) and still make a play downfield because of the 'it' factor."

Little's not a big guy, but that doesn't concern Burke in the least.

"If it was based upon height, we'd play our tallest 11 players; if it was based upon weight, we'd play our heaviest 11 players," Burke said. "We all have this idea in mind of prototypical size (for a quarterback), but if you can play, you can play. It doesn't matter what your speed, height or weight is."

Kost (6-0, 185) will be Little's backup, but he'll be a player with lots of duties.

"Nick presents a different option at quarterback; he will probably run the ball more than he throws it," Burke said. "There will be times when he comes into the game he would be in a Tim Tebow-type of package (when Tebow played for the University of Florida), and we'll do that a little bit with Nick."

Kost did just that in last Friday night's OHSAA "Jamboree" scrimmage against Sheridan and scored on a 3-yard run.

"And with the way that we do offense, you'd be surprised how well the quarterbacks know the running back position," Burke noted. "Nick has been practicing at quarterback but also goes in at times in different personnel groupings at running back. If he's called to duty at running back he'll fill in there quite nicely."

Speaking of running the ball, the Chiefs return senior Isaac Schmeltzer (5-11, 175), who rushed for 562 yards and a team-high six touchdowns despite missing more than two games due to injury last fall. Only Cory McCarty (1,072 yards) ran for more.

"Isaac Schmeltzer is going to haul the mail for us," Burke stated. "When we go into one-back sets, he's going to be our feature guy. Sophomores Cole Baron (5-10, 180) and Bryce McBride (5-9, 175) will see time. What's nice is that Kost, McBride (and) Baron are all defensive guys, but we're not always going to need all those running backs in the game at the same time.

"We'll be able to find ways to get those guys breaks on offense but, at the same time, when we want to go with multiple-back sets, when they're fresh we'll have the opportunity to do that," he added. "What we probably don't have is the traditional fullback type of guy, but a lot of teams don't have that anymore and a lot of teams don't use a traditional fullback.

"What we have are guys who are athletic and guys who can really run. I'll (take) athleticism and speed (over) the size of a prototypical fullback any day."

And, in Schmeltzer, Kost, McBride and Baron, the Chiefs certainly have athleticism as well as players who are strong and bulldog-tough.

"We're not real big at running back, so the things we do from the running back position are going to be a little bit different than if we had a six-foot, 195-pound running back," Burke said.

Senior Nick Maniskas (5-11, 170) was Logan's top receiver (17 receptions, 199 yards) last season. The Chiefs lost their next two receivers, meaning Schmeltzer (nine receptions), Kost

(six) and Dean Jordan (five) were next in line, mostly out of the backfield or while lined up at tight end.

"We have several wide receivers," Burke said, noting Maniskas, Isiah Smith (6-0, 160), Nathan Cocks (5-9, 155), Evan DeLong (6-3, 175), Casey Phillips (6-0, 135) and Dominick Stevens (5-6, 150) are in the top mix of pass-catchers.

Phillips "was competing for the quarterback position and converted to receiver, and has done a wonderful job stepping up to a new position," Burke lauded. "We have (six) receivers to play four positions. We're not always going to have four receivers out there, (but they are all) capable of playing."

Maniskas' status for Friday's Lancaster game is up in the air due to a back injury. He might be held out of the Lancaster game for precautionary reasons.

"His back issue is more of a cautionary issue that has the potential to be serious, so we're trying to rest him until the last possible minute," Burke revealed.

Burke declines to name starters because participation depends upon situational packages.

"I wouldn't say we have starters as much as we have situational players," Burke said. "My philosophy is trying to find one-and-a-half-way players; some guys are 1.75-way players, some guys are 1.25-way players. You have guys who can play both offense and defense, (but) how much?"

"Let's say we just came off the field defensively and we were out there for awhile," he continued. "I can go into different personnel groupings or send different receivers in for Nick Maniskas or Evan DeLong to give them a break, then I'll have the option of being able to go to four wide-receiver set."

The tight end position was all but extinct during the years the Chiefs ran the spread almost exclusively to their wide receivers. They began reincorporating a tight end last season, and now the Chiefs have a few to choose from.

"We have three capable tight ends, which is really nice to have because some teams struggle to find one," Burke said. "Sometimes you'll see two in the game at the same time; maybe even three since we have three."

A pair of senior newcomers, Kevin Fisher and Gabe Smith, are the primary targets, with junior returning letterman Jordan available as well. Fisher (6-8, 225) and Smith (6-4, 200) are expected to be the big men in the middle for the Chieftain basketball team this winter.

"Two nice-sized, good-looking tight ends," Burke said of Smith and Fisher. "And if we didn't have those two guys, who are sort of prototypical (tight end) bodies, Dean (Jordan, 6-0, 185) would probably be our tight end. (Smith and Fisher) have good size to be tight ends."

DEFENSE

LOGAN — The 2013 Logan Chieftains won't be a two-platoon football team.

Several players will play both defense and offense, so it will be essential to develop depth and find creative times and ways to give players a break.

"I suppose you could call us a shade-50 defense, but really we're a multiple defense," said head coach Billy Burke. "The defense is structured to be able to play against a Lancaster (with huge size), which is a power-running team in a wing-T set, but also prepared for when we play Newark against a very good quarterback and multiple receivers. The defense is structured to adapt to the (opponents') offensive system.

"The reason that's the case is that teams have so much time in the off-season to throw the football that we have to be able to defend the pass," he added. "Years ago, you didn't work on the pass as much; everybody ran the football more, so everybody was geared to stop the run and make you pass. Well, now we have to be able to defend the pass as much as we defend the run."

Thus the Chiefs have to be able to make defensive changes both quickly and on the fly.

"The defense is flexible in that we're able to check coverages automatically, sometimes based upon the offensive formation," Burke stated. "It's not as if we're in only one type of defense that we have to make adjustments out of; our adjustment is to check to a different coverage or a different look."

With one exception, personnel along the defensive line will be the same as on the O-line.

Senior "Charlie Paulsen (6-3, 250) is going to play nose tackle, solidify (the line) and only be on the defensive line," Burke said. "Reggie Wesselhoeft (6-4, 300) will on the defensive line with him; Nick Schneider (6-0, 215) and Brock Emerson (5-10, 250) will rotate through; Jesse Needs (5-11, 225) will play some of the defensive line, and Caleb Myers (6-0, 205) will play some on the defensive line."

Bryce McBride (5-9, 175), the first freshman to earn an LHS varsity football letter since 1960, will be joined by senior Austin Scarberry (5-7, 185) as middle linebackers, with Dean Jordan (6-0, 185) and Kevin Fisher (6-8, 225) competing for the outside position.

"Evan DeLong (6-3, 175) and Nick Maniskas (5-11, 170) are at corner, with Nathan Cocks (5-9, 155) and Dominick Stevens (5-6, 150) having the ability to play corner, and at safety are Nick Kost (6-0, 185), Cole Baron (5-10, 180) and Isiah Smith (6-0, 160)," Burke said.

"When we evaluated our talent, we looked at how many guys we felt we have capable of playing in our secondary," he continued, "and we came up with eight or nine names... those were the same eight or nine we felt confident in if they had to play receiver as well. That goes back to the job the coaches did in building depth.

"The reason we have so much depth and availability of players is that our coaches did a real nice job during camp of coaching kids up, so we know kids who are physically capable of playing those positions. Because of the job we've done coaching-wise, they're mentally prepared to step in. They understand the concepts of the offense as opposed to just memorizing a position. Therefore, they can come in and play a position that isn't traditionally the one they play, but they can come in because they understand the compliment of the position."

As many as eight or nine players could be playing both ways, which will especially be tougher to deal with early in the season when the weather is hot.

"It goes back to where we want to find guys who are one-and-a-half-way players, so our job as a coaching staff is to find creative ways and to give guys breaks," Burke revealed. "We may have a guy who is our best offensive and defensive lineman, but if he's out there each and every play, especially early in the season, he's no longer a starter in ability because he's tired and it's hot.

"We've just taken a starter who, because he's fatigued, may be playing like a third-teamer, so we have to get him out of the game in certain spots and get guys in there and give him breaks," he added. "We have to have capable backups when our starters are not in the game."

The Chiefs have 49 players from their top three grades. That's probably more than several Logan foes this fall.

"Sometimes other teams have the luxury of having more bodies when it's earlier in the season, so not because a team is necessarily better, but sometimes you lose the war of attrition," Burke said. "We as coaches have to have a plan in place to keep our guys as fresh as possible. We don't have the luxury of numbers like a lot of teams.

"Having (49) is a great number," he continued. "If you had to pick ideally, it would be in the 55 to 60 neighborhood, but (49) is especially good for me coming from a school where I was used to having 44 (in grades) nine-through-12, not 48 in 10-through-12."

On special teams, senior newcomer Charles Bowlby (6-1, 155) is the primary specialist for field goals, kickoffs and extra points, backed up by Stevens. Jordan is slated to do the punting.

Not only didn't the Chieftains make a field goal last season but, for the first time in recent memory, they didn't even attempt one. Bowlby tried (and missed) a 37-yarder in last Friday's OHSAA "Jamboree" scrimmage against Sheridan.

Bowlby, also an outstanding pole vaulter in track and field, sustained a hamstring injury prior to last spring's Division I district meet and could not compete. He has also played soccer in the past but is not doing so this season.

"Charles is now learning to become a football player who kicks as opposed to being just a kicker who kicks," Burke said. At a recent practice, "I put him in a very stressful situation where I told him if he missed a field goal, the rest of the team had to run across the sideline and back.

"Well, they had to run," Burke continued. "I wanted him to understand that if you can handle this pressure, where you're making your teammates run because you missed, then you can handle any pressure from a Friday night."

Burke then told Bowlby to try again, then blew the whistle and called time-out just before the snap from center.

"I don't think he quite understood the icing (of the kicker) concept, but we did that so that if it does happen to him, Charles understands the situation," Burke noted. "It goes back to putting him a stressful position so it's not so bad on Friday night... and nothing's worse than making your teammates run — looking over your shoulder when you miss a field goal and making them run."

Stevens, Isaac Schmeltzer (5-11, 175) and Maniskas are the primary kickoff and punt returners — Maniskas averaged 20 yards per kickoff return in '12 — and Myers will handle long snaps, with sophomore Josh Rardain (5-10, 205) also in the mix.

Top 10 LHS Traditions

Below are the top 10 traditions related to Logan High School football, as chosen by LoganFootball.com.

Tradition

10. - The Robert Dee Gabriel Memorial Color Guard. They present the colors before each home game, a unique part of the Chieftain pre-game, and just another aspect that makes Football Fridays on the Hilltop special.

9. - Tomahawk Award Stickers. These stickers were first given out in the late-1960s. The decals have changed over time, but they decorate Chieftain helmets to this day.

8. - Hitting the "WIN" sign as the team leaves the locker room. The origin of the "WIN" sign is unknown, but every kid who walks into the locker room knows its importance. Even if you're walking out for gym class, it's hard not to put your fist on the sign.

7. - The Pre-Game Pile Jump. Following the run through "Tunnel 'L'," members of the Varsity football team form a mass of purple while the last couple of players, usually captains and seniors, jump on top of the pile to give final words of encouragement.

6. - Singing the LHS Fight Song at Mid-Field after every win. Following every win, the Chieftains gather at mid-field to sing the LHS Fight Song. This is especially sweet after victories over rivals on the road or after clinching the SEOAL title at home.

5. - Willie Dicken's "Touchdown, Logan." Following every Logan touchdown, two famous words shout over the loudspeakers at Bill Sauer Field, Touchdown, Logan.

4. - Fast Entrance. The Logan Marching Chieftains signature entrance. One of the most unique spectacles in all of high school sports. Helps define Friday Nights on the Hilltop.

3. - Victory Bell. We're still researching the origins of the LHS Victory Bell that rings out following every Chieftain Victory. Following the singing of the LHS Fight Song, the boys sprint to the East Gates to let the sweet sound of victory ring!

2. - Senior Walk. Starting by the Seniors of 2001, following the final home game, all the seniors join arms and take one final walk across Bill Sauer Field. Although it is a new tradition, it's one that has grown quickly. It's a bitter sweet moment and a fitting end to a long journey.

1. - Tunnel "L." If you talk to current or former players, they'll tell you there is no bigger rush than running through the Logan Marching Chieftain's "Tunnel 'L'" just before kick-off. With thousands of fans on their feet, it's one of the loudest moments of the evening.
